

Instructors for Arts Classes

(RE)MAKING HISTORY

The Carnegie Arts Center is opening in September!

We are looking for talented instructors and artists to teach classes at the new Carnegie Arts Center. Our schedule is open for a variety of class proposals from all arts disciplines — visual arts, music, drama, dance and poetry. We have two classrooms that accommodate 20 students or more and a large multipurpose room with mirrors that can be used for drama, dance and movement.

Proposals can be for students of any age and can be for classes of any duration—on-going, by the week or month, or single workshops.

Pay for teachers will range from $18-$24 an hour, and will be based on prior experience.

Call to get a class proposal form and send us your ideas!

Proposals are due by April 22nd, and we'll establish a Fall 2011 schedule by July 1.

If you have any questions about submitting a proposal, please call Lisa McDermott, Assistant Director, at 632-5761 or email us via admin@carnegieartsturlock.org.
